How can a person be racist if they have friends who are Blacks?

Here is the real answer to the question. To ask such a question means that you are viewing the world, and navigating your world through a RACE based lens. Racial groups is not the same as ethnic groups. Because racial groups do not exist in nature. And Black people are a very Euro-Centric creation of Africana people who have been stripped of their names, culture, traditions, ethnicity, language, history and spiritual values. Black people are psychologically reconditioned with a purpose towards being acquiescing on behalf of the White-American society.

Racism doesn't exist within someone as a personal opinion. Race based concepts and constructs are created, regulated and imposed through governance. And if you have learned Social Studies in first and secondary education, you have been indoctrinated to socialize based on racial groupings. Social Studies is different from learning history. While history teaching the who, what, why, when and where throughout time; Social Studies is used as a tool of social engineering. Social Studies is more about crafting a narrative with a purpose of shaping hearts and minds. The real reason why incomplete history lessons are taught in the United States is so innocent White children grow up with a 'polished and patriotic' devotion to this nation's past; rather than this nation's history.

An example of this can be seen when reviewing the history of Christopher Columbus. Take a deep dive into learning the complete history of Christopher Columbus. Then compare it to what is taught in first and secondary public education. Christopher Columbus during his time in the Caribbean; his behavior was on the same level as Lucifer.

If anything, White children being taught a true and complete history; they would have too much empathy towards Indigenous Americans and African-Americans to sustain pro White Supremacist social and political policies. And this could bring the collapse to the constructs and concepts of racism in governance. The creation of racial groupings is a Social Class System that indicates levels of 'social status' for the purpose of social engineering. These systems may have been intended to stir competition for building a robust capitalist economy. However, class systems also Instigate chronic stress, discrimination and inequality based mistreatment upon powerless groups.

To understand how innocent children in the US are intentionally miseducated about RACISM.
